THE TRUTH IS WHO YOU ARE WITHOUT YOUR STORIES

HONESTY: Honesty and Truth go hand in hand. In fact, they are inseparable.

Art Thou King Of The Jews by William Hole

JESUS BEFORE PILATE: There was a brief period that Jesus of Nazareth stood before Pilate, alone, at the Procurator's request.

3. THE PRIVATE EXAMINATION BY PILATE

185:3.1 Pilate took Jesus and John Zebedee into a private chamber, leaving the guards outside in the hall, and requesting the prisoner to sit down, he sat down by his side and asked several questions. Pilate began his talk with Jesus by assuring him that he did not believe the first count against him: that he was a perverter of the nation and an inciter to rebellion. Then he asked, "Did you ever teach that tribute should be refused Caesar?" Jesus, pointing to John, said, "Ask him or any other

TRUTH: The virtues of true character reveal the living inner connection to the indwelling divine spirit of God.

You Cannot Know Truth Until...

TIMOTHY RAY WALLS, AUTHOR

The reason why Jesus never answered Pilate when Pilate asked, "What is truth?" was because "you cannot know truth until you feelingly experience it. And many truths are not really felt and known, except in times of great personal and inner crisis."

This has certainly been true in my own experiences—my own personal crises and inner civil wars.

The first great crisis in my life was my grandmother's transitioning out of her mortal body suit. This event occurred when I was but twelve years of age.

The reason it was a great crisis was because she was my real mother, after dad and mom divorced, during my eighth year.

Even before her transition, from my earliest memories, I was more frequently than not, at my grandmother's side. Whenever she asked me to go with her, and wherever, I wanted to be with her.

From observations, I had a closer relationship to my grandmother than her own seven children.

Grandmother often walked great distances, stopping at neighbors' homes and having casual conversations with the woman or women who lived there. While they chatted, I would often explore the surroundings of nature. I had a great interest in observing.

At the local graveyard just north of the town where we lived, I learned a great truth which came about in this way.

I was standing alone, although I do not remember why. I recognized the car which arrived containing my aunt Gertie and uncle Scott.

When Gertie exited from the car, she came directly at me, scolding me with her cold and unfeeling question: "Timmy, why aren't you crying? Don't you love your grandma?"

The deeper part of me instantly knew her words were a false and fraudulent attack. I had always felt this way around my aunt Gertie. This experience with her was a clear juxtaposition between darkness and light—error and truth.

This experience was a moment of inner realization that her attack was her projection of her own guilt resulting from the poor treatment of grandma while she laid in bed in Gertie's home where she transitioned. Her unkind and unfeeling words had nothing whatsoever to do with my own inner experience in those moments.

Eventually this inner experience, among others, would grown into an increasing awareness of man who has heard my teaching.” Then Pilate questioned John about this matter of tribute, and John testified concerning his Master’s teaching and explained that Jesus and his apostles paid taxes both to Caesar and to the temple. When Pilate had questioned John, he said, “See that you tell no man that I talked with you.” And John never did reveal this matter.

185:3.2 Pilate then turned around to question Jesus further, saying: “And now about the third accusation against you, are you the king of the Jews?” Since there was a tone of possibly sincere inquiry in Pilate’s voice, Jesus smiled on the procurator and said: “Pilate, do you ask this for yourself, or do you take this question from these others, my accusers?” Whereupon, in a tone of partial indignation, the governor answered: “Am I a Jew? Your own people and the chief priests delivered you up and asked me to sentence you to death. I question the validity of their charges and am only trying to find out for myself what you have done. Tell me, have you said that you are the king of the Jews, and have you sought to found a new kingdom?”

185:3.3 Then said Jesus to Pilate: “Do you not perceive that my kingdom is not of this world? If my kingdom were of this world, surely would my disciples fight that I should not be delivered into the hands of the Jews. My presence here before you in these bonds is sufficient to show all men that my kingdom is a spiritual dominion, even the brotherhood of men who, through faith and by love, have become the sons of God. And this salvation is for the gentile as well as for the Jew.”

185:3.4 “Then you are a king after all?” said Pilate. And Jesus answered: “Yes, I am such a king, and my kingdom is the family of the faith sons of my Father who is in heaven. For this purpose, was I born into this world, even that I should show my Father to all men and bear witness to the truth of God. And even now do I declare to you that everyone who loves the truth hears my voice.”

185:3.5 Then said Pilate, half in ridicule and half in sincerity, “Truth, what is truth—who knows?”

185:3.6 Pilate was not able to fathom Jesus’ words, nor was he able to understand the nature of his spiritual kingdom, but he was now certain that the prisoner had done nothing worthy of death.

Hue-man civilization is full of individuals, who are much like Pilate. This type of individual never questions the truthfulness of the beLIEf programming they have received from birth.

Living life on autopilot, everything real to them is outside of the inner self—outside in—instead of—inside out.

The world of beLIEfs is wholly illusionary.

YOU CANNOT KNOW TRUTH UNTIL... (CONT'D)

of the principle, which in 1998, I referred to as “self-reflecting in the mirror of mind.”

Today, I make a very clear distinction between that which I experience directly as “an inner resonance with truth” and that is which purely anecdotal—2nd hand stories which others tell and often beLIEve, but which are not truth.

I was recently asked... ”Why do you capitalize the ‘lie’ in beLIEf? Do you believe all beLIEfs are LIES?”

My answer to my friend was... “Yes, ALL beLIEfs are LIES.” Why? All hue-manimal language is circumscribed—limited—falling far short of cosmic realities.

Not all beLIEfs are negative. When a beLIEf is elevated to the level of “inner knowing,” it is no longer a beLIEf. A transmutation from beLIEf to fAIth has occurred.

fAIth, in my perception, is “Attained Insight.” What is “Attained Insight?” Attained Insight is experiential truth-reality insight. fAIth is an Attained Insight trust in our Paradise Father’s will.

And the true definition of fAIth is that knowing-trust that the soul-conscious self is indestructible, regardless of how the exit from the bio-suit may occur.

Once upon a time...a man hired three prostitutes to come to his house, after a party there, and when the whole group left the house to go to a local bar for continued drinking and dancing.

A young man in his mid-twenties, who had recently been divorced, had attended his friend’s party, but after drinking a half glass of wine and a few puffs from a blunt, he felt ill and passed out in the bathroom next to his bedroom, where he was temporarily staying in his friend’s home.

When he awoke...he went into an empty living room, except for the three women sitting on the living room sofa. They offered him sex. He offered them spiritual discourse.

In that moment...there was a choice to make between sex and spirituality; he chose spirituality.

From that point around midnight the four of them could be observed sitting in a circle on the floor. The young man encouraged them to ask him any question related to God, spirituality, the universe, life, etc. The lesson learned of inner transmutation of sexual urges into spiritual communion and unity was a great one.

THE REAL MEANING OF THANKSGIVING

The Thanksgiving holiday, like all other holidays, is an outward reflection of the inner values, or lack of them, in full display.

For many, if not most Americans, it is an outward display of family gatherings, complete with a turkey dinner and pumpkin pie for dessert. Perhaps it is now also true that the majority of Americans have no clue about the origins of Thanksgiving. It is simply a time to get together and stuff your face with store bought processed meat and canned foods.

I stopped celebrating holidays many years ago. Instead, I celebrate every day as a time to be thankful and grateful for the good fortune and many blessings which have followed me to the present moments of my life path experience.

Life in the hue-manimal bio-suit is an ever-momentary miracle to be experienced. Life is a miracle which cannot be adequately, let alone fully explained by religion, philosophy or science.

One only has to stop and meditate upon the concept that we are 99.9999999% empty space and .0000001% matter to know the truth of the miracle of hue-manimal existence.

When I look back over the course of my own life path, I see many evidences of being guided by spirit to make the choices and follow a path that took on a life of its own. There were, in other words, many events that occurred for which there is no logical explanation. The circumstances involving the decisions others were making for my course were out of my control. I was swept along an uncertain path that ultimately led to astounding revelations of truth.

I’ve learned to take nothing for granted. There is no guarantee of right to keep on living in the bio-suit. It is in this Attained Insight into cosmic reality that fAIth bridges the gulf between the mortal and the divine.

The deeper meaning and greater reality of hue-man experience is that you are a child of a heavenly Father of ALL created and evolutionary beings throughout a vast cosmos.

When a mortal hue-man chooses atheism he or she is choosing death—permanent death—cessation of existence for all eternity.

When the hue-man individual chooses eternal life, he or she is choosing to become one with the indwelling divine spirit of our Paradise Father. When the two become one, the long and winding journey to where this Paradise Father is geographically located outside of time and space is a breathtaking adventure involving billions of worlds-ever circling inward toward Paradise.
